Ontario doing something about Acid Rain problem, launches court action on United States

The Ontario provincial government has initiated the first Canadian legal challenge against the United States in the growing battle against acid rain.

It blames the former Carter administration for allowing stringent clean-air laws to become less effective by allowing states to skirt them, leading to increased trans-border pollution.

Ontario fears that more of the same will happen under the new administration of President Ronald Reagan as the US switches more to coal for generating electricity. Ontario officials said they were taken by surprise when they learned from New York state last January how far the clean-air laws were being relaxed to allow more pollution from utilities switching to coal.

The province submitted on Thursday a legal and scientific brief, 136 pages, asking the US Environmental Protection Agency in Washington to stop six states who want to lower standards for sulphur emissions in 18 coal burning plants.

"It is a most unusual step for our jurisdiction," said Graham Scott, Ontario's deputy environmental minister. He said there was no federal input in the decision although he felt Ottawa favoured it.

As an "aggrieved party," Ontario cited in its brief a section of the US Clean-Air Act of 1970 — amended in 1977 allowing such an intervention, at least in Ontario's interpretation of the law.

As for a province intervening in another country, Ontario also drew from precedents established under international law and rulings including the 1941 Trail, B.C., smelter decision on trans-border pollution, when the US won damages from Canada after sulphur dioxide pollution from the Trail smelter spread into Washington state.

While Ontario was encouraged by President Reagan's desire to solve the problem of acid rain — expressed during his visit to Ottawa, Scott said there was no evidence of abatement progress from the EPA.

In its intervention, Ontario asked the EPA to reject proposals from Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Tennessee and West Virginia to relax limits of sulphur emissions from the 18 coal fired plants.

In the submissions, Ontario documents the effects of current levels of emission from the 18 power plants on Ontario's lakes and rivers and projects the consequences of higher emissions if the states succeed in their attempts to relax clean-air standards further.

Scott said he is confident that Canada and the US will negotiate a treaty on trans-border pollution. Ontario is asking the EPA to do two things: a) Primarily to turn down the requests of the six states for relaxation in emission levels and b) enforce existing emission levels because a number of the 18 plants are not meeting the requirements of their state emission play.

New York filed an intervention with the EPA before Ontario, claiming that during the last two years the EPA approved emission increases for at least nine power plants, resulting in an allowable increase of more than 800,000 ton of sulphur dioxide, Scott said.

"The current impact of fallout of emissions from the 18 power plants in question on our Haliburton/Muskoka recreation areas, notwithstanding the much greater distances involved, is equal to the impact of fallout on this area from the total Ontario Hydro system."

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Another $100 Million to make work in Canada

The Federal government will spend $100 million to create jobs for students this summer. And there will be another $10 million given to help support summer community job-creation projects.

The government's concern for students is admirable if that, in fact, is why this summer's employment program is being staged.

But the truth is that $100 million of the taxpayers' money is being spent to help boost our employment figures so the government doesn't look so bad. People under 25 account for 45 percent of the 850,000 unemployed last month.

When employment Minister Lloyd Axworthy announced the whooping job-creation program, it was an admission of guilt — an admission that the Trudeau government is unable to create an economy in Canada that would provide sufficient jobs for Canadians.

Trudeau's government policies have in truth discouraged private industries from developing and expanding. Therefore they are unable to provide the jobs that students — and others — need to make their lives meaningful.

And so the government has to make work — to put students on the public payroll, simply to keep them occupied. The students will accept the jobs gladly — they need the money. But we don't think they are fooled by the government's generosity!

For centuries the people of Ireland have honoured their patron saint on the 17th of March in the traditional way. The life and deeds of St. Patrick renews their strength and pride in their Irish ancestors that suffered much on their behalf. Patrick was only 16 years old when he was captured by Druid raiders and taken to Ireland as a slave for six years. It was during this period of his life Patrick's belief in God matured, and when he was spiritually ready, God helped him escape. It's interesting to note that the Irish land which he entered as a foreigner, only 16 years of age, an age when children's values and loyalties are formed, he now left as a true Irishman. He travelled 200 miles to reach his parents' home and after the celebrations in honour of his return, the feeling of unrest haunted him as it haunted many Irishmen after him. He heard within his soul the cry for help from his suppressed brothers in Ireland. After some years of study in France, Patrick went to Ireland and lived among his people until the time of his death at the age of 72.

The manner of celebrating St. Patrick's day has not changed over the years for the people still living in Ireland, but it changed considerably for the thousands of Irish that were forced to leave their homeland. Many made their homes in the wilderness areas of United States and Canada, and the rudeness of the land along with the hard winters subdued their spirit. All the Irish in the community would gather, out of desperate loneliness, in people's homes to talk about the family and friends that were left behind. Many stories would be told by the story-teller, who was a respected historian-musician. In more recent years a concert would take place and an Irish play performed as well as the songs and dances of Ireland.

Today in Maynooth and other Irish towns, people still gather in the homes and local pubs to celebrate St. Patrick's day. The 17th of March is not only a saint's day, but a celebration in honour of the survival of the Irish culture and the Irish spirit; a spirit that cannot be broken. So wishin' ye the top o' the day on the 17th of March and "may ye be in Heaven an hour before the Devil knows your dead."

Wilberforce wins Bus Cramp Memorial, downs Georgina 6-1

MINDEN — The annual Bus Cramp Memorial Bantam B hockey tournament was held here at the Centre this weekend with nine teams competing.

After 18 games had been completed Wilberforce had won the championship defeating a tired Georgina team 6-1. Georgina had to play four games in this tournament, the final two games with very little rest. In the consolation final, St. Mark's of Peterborough blasted a hapless Fenelon Falls 13-1.

Minden earned advancement to the championship side in their opening game when they scored the first goal in a 3-3 tie with Fenelon. Daryl Ward opened the scoring in this contest at 3:46 of the first assisted by Daryl Landry. Tom McLeod upped the count to 2-0 at 7:57 from John Wells and John Ballantyne. Fenelon scored a minute later to end the period 2-1 for Minden. Fenelon tied the game at 1:23 of the second period but Robert Landry put Minden on top again at 6:36 from McLeod. Fourteen seconds later, Fenelon again tied the game and that's how it ended.

Novices defeat Fenelon F. 3-1, Atoms ousted from round robin

FENELON FALLS — Last Thursday evening here, the Minden Novices came through with a tough 3-0 victory over their hosts in a best three out of five consolation playoff series. In the first period Randy Bull opened the scoring from Robbie Ackerblade and Kent Taylor. Taylor then upped the score to 2-0 before the period ended, assisted by Bull. Then in the second period Bull iced the victory with his second of the night from Taylor.

Minden now leads the series two games to none with the third game in Minden on Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. The novices will, if they happen to lose this game, return to Fenelon Falls on Thursday evening and then they are off to the Glen Dart tournament in Haliburton on Saturday.

The Atoms completed their season on Saturday in Sunderland, when they played their final round robin championship series playoff game. Sunderland came away with a 5-2 decision. Scott Russell netted both goals for Minden in this game, the first from Dwayne Cooper and the second from Cooper and Kent Taylor.

On Tuesday evening in Bobcaygeon our Atoms lost 4-0. The Minden boys played well in both games but just didn't have the horses against these two opponents. The Sunderland team ended the marathon round robin series with the most points and now advance to the next round of playoff action.

For Minden, its time to hang-up for another year.

LEASING & RENTAL

CURRY MOTORS

VERY LITTLE DOWN
WHEN YOU
LEASE A NEW CAR
FROM US

That's because your deposit on a new leased car can be substantially less than what you'd put down to buy a new car. What's more, you'll never fret over what your lease car is worth at trade-in time because your car will never get too old.

Each monthly leasing payment also covers such costs of enjoying a new car as financing, depreciation, taxes.

There are other solid reasons for leasing a new Chevrolet from us. So, come on in. Let's discuss the lease plan ... and that new Chevrolet ... that fit your needs.

And your pocketbook.
